

Glimpses of Jesus

Do you long to know the secret of success in the Christian walk? If so, this devotional booklet contains a special message just for you. Inspiration calls the theme of this booklet "present truth," but don't be misled. There are many voices crying out that we have lost sight of some special truth. Yet, the fact remains that we have lost sight of Jesus. From beginning to end, these pages unfold a simple revelation of the love of God. Here you will find glimpses of Jesus that promise to strengthen and uplift the soul.

BIBLES NEEDED

Help us take the gospel of Jesus Christ to all the world by donating to LBM any extra Bibles you may have. Our goal is 10,000 Bibles for 2010—one thousand for each English speaking container. Every Bible sent will be a huge blessing to new believers overseas, many of whom cannot afford to buy one. Thank you.

Why the Flood?

By Ty Gibson

Q: If God is so good, why did He drown the whole world with a flood? This seems like an extreme act of rage or, worse yet, an act of mass murder. How could God do such a thing?

A: The short answer is that the Flood was a radical emergency intervention God needed to perform in order to save the human race from extinction, and He did so in perfect consistency with His good character. He did the right thing and the best thing.

If we fail to read and grasp the account as it is told in Scripture, the Flood may easily appear in a false light, especially to minds that are inclined to judge God harshly. But notice the picture that emerges if we allow all the elements of the story to inform us:

1. God was in anguish over the situation. "The Lord saw that the wickedness of man was great in the earth, and that every intent of the thoughts of his heart was only evil continually. And the LORD was sorry that He had made man on the earth, and He was grieved in His heart"

(Genesis 6:5, NKJV). This was not easy for God. The account does not reveal a harsh God eager to pounce with fury, but an agonizing God who longs for the human situation to be different. That's the first point that needs to be figured in.

2. The prominent aspect of human evil confronting God at the time was that violence was being universally practiced. "The earth also was corrupt before God, and the earth was filled with violence. So God looked upon the earth, and indeed it was corrupt; for all flesh had corrupted their way on the earth" (6:11-12). Note the language. The whole world was like Rwanda during its genocide or like Western Europe engaged in World War II. Rampant violence.

3. The violence was so extreme that the self-extinction of the human race was inevitable without divine intervention. "God said to Noah, 'The end of all flesh [extinction] has come before Me, for the earth is filled with violence through them; and behold, I will destroy them with the earth'" (6:13). In the face of the threat of humanity's complete ruin, God found it necessary to implement a radical surgical rescue mission—to end the violence before it ended the race.

4. In anguish God brought the Flood, but only with the qualification that He would do so while establishing a covenant with Noah. "And behold, I Myself am bringing the flood of waters on the earth, to destroy from under heaven all flesh in which is the breath of life; and everything that is on the earth shall die. But I will establish My covenant with you" (6:17-18). While God found it necessary to bring the Flood, He only did so as a salvation measure for the ultimate good of humanity. He would not let us go. Rather, He established covenant with Noah. A righteous pool of humans would be preserved. The covenant means that God's long-range plan is to eternally save mankind from its sin by sending Christ into the world.

Here is the heart of God: anguish, intervention and salvation for humanity. That was His motive and plan in bringing the Flood. To a world on the verge of self-destruction by its own violence.

LIGHT BEARERS IN AFRICA

CONSIDER THIS . . .

Sin, that cost Adam beautiful Eden, exists everywhere in our world. Evil triumphs wherever God is not known or His character contemplated. We could not commit sin if we realized the presence of God, and thought upon His goodness, His love, and His compassion. Satan knows that if he can obscure the vision so that the eye of faith cannot behold God, there will be no barrier against sin. It is necessary to know God in order to be attracted to Him. And the perception of His image as represented in Christ changes the sinner's views of evil. The shadow of Satan obscures the character of Jesus and of God; but if we by faith gain a knowledge of God, and hold steadfastly to Jesus, we shall be changed. In Jesus is manifested the character of the Father, and the sight of Him attracts. It softens and subdues, and ceases not to transform the character, until Christ is formed within, the hope of glory.

Ellen White,
Signs of the Times,
August 24, 1891

God could have destroyed Satan and his sympathizers as easily as one can cast a pebble to the earth; but He did not do this. Rebellion was not to be overcome by force. Compelling power is found only under Satan's government. The Lord's principles are not of this order. His authority rests upon goodness, mercy, and love; and the presentation of these principles is the means to be used. God's government is moral, and truth and love are to be the prevailing power.

Ellen White,
The Desire of Ages, p. 759

At the cross of Calvary, love and selfishness stood face to face. Here was their crowning manifestation. Christ had lived only to comfort and bless, and in putting Him to death, Satan manifested the malignity of his hatred against God. He made it evident that the real purpose of his rebellion was to dethrone God, and to destroy Him through whom the love of God was shown.

Ellen White,
The Desire of Ages, p. 57

Dear Light Bearers,

Here is a report of how your literature has blessed Africa:

Every year we take Laurelwood Academy students to do mission work for the month of March. This year one of the groups went to Kisii, Kenya, East Africa. I was with this group of seven students.

Light Bearers Ministry gave us 50 pounds of literature to share. When we first got there, I took out a small amount of literature to share throughout the day. I didn't ask any of our youth for help. They were building a church, holding adult and children's meetings, and visiting schools and orphanages.

When our youth saw how eager and excited the African people were for literature, they begged to have some to hand out! After that, the adults let the youth have the privilege of sharing—it was so fun! They were so eager to do it and would take each other's literature to have enough.

The people were so eager that they would run up to us to receive it. Sometimes there would be a frenzy which reminds me of Matthew 11:12 “. . . the violent take it (the kingdom of heaven) by force.”

What a pleasure it is to share with those so hungry for truth!

Sometimes our youth would pass literature out the van window. Motor bikes, with up to four people on them would take it as they drove by. People in the markets and on the road side would run to get leaflets. Vans would drive by us and the people packed in them would reach out to receive God's Word—even at the speed of 80km/hr (much to the adults' consternation). What a pleasure it is to share with those so hungry for truth!

Moses was an armored truck guard we met at a bank. He was thrilled to accept the printed Word and later came to visit us at the church.

A Catholic car rental businessman longed for written material and was so thankful when we offered him some.

A Church of Christ pastor was deeply grateful for this literature to help him with his sermons.

At numerous road stops we shared literature with policeman, who gratefully received it. The Kenyan people (young and old) are very literate and love good reading. They share the printed page with friends and neighbors. They are not saturated with TV and media. Their hearts are open to God's Word. They want to say thank you. They want to tell Light Bearers how much they appreciate knowing more about Jesus. We want to communicate their thanks to you and add our own for being allowed to be the hands to share the Light of the World!

Love and prayers, Beth Boram

Most Incredible Prophecy

Throughout the Old Testament there are over 300 specific prophecies that reveal the life and character of the Messiah. In order for Jesus to be the Messiah, He would have to pass the prophetic test by fulfilling every messianic prophecy. Daniel 9 gave the Messiah a short time frame in which to fulfill most of the prophecies. Did Jesus pass the tests?

Theodicy

For centuries the question has been asked, "If God is so good why is there so much suffering in the world?" Why has sin and evil lasted so long? What does the Antichrist have to do with all of this? Is God ever going to do something about pain and suffering? In this documentary we are on a search for answers to these questions. Along the way we will look into the history of evil. Join us for an exciting journey into one of the most perplexing subjects known to man.
